HAS HANDS FULL-AT STATE'S PRISON

Warden Simpson in Trying Position During Recent Disturbances.

Warden Nathan F. Simpson of the Jackson state prison is having his troubles. The prisoners have been in open revolt for a week, and while the warden has had the situation well in hand at all times he faced the real crisis in the history of the state penal insti-

While there has been mutterings of dissatisfaction and trouble between the prisoners on the one hand and the deputy warden and guards on the other for some time, the riot did not break out until last Friday when the dishes in the dining room were broken and the cooks The offenders were locked in what is called the "Bull Pen." The postmaster requests the publication of the following order for the benefit of the patrons of the local office. He states that he is willing to work Sundays for the accommodation of the patrons, but must be governed by instructions and orders from the post-office department. August 30, 1912.

The Postmaster: Sir:-From numerous communications received at the department there appears to be some misapprehension among postmasters as regards the provision in the Post Office Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, relating to the delivery of mail on Sunday at first and second class post in all first and second class offices has offices concerning which certain instructions were issued by circular letter dated the 24th instant. This provision as constructed by the postmaster general does not require that the lobbies of such offices be closed on Sunday but simply that the delivery of mail to the matter how accommodating and obliging general public, through the general he may desire to be, must act in accord- delivery, carrier windows, and boxes be discontinued.
